Foundation Welcomes Richard D. Kelly, Thomas Reidy and Jean M. White to Leadership Roles

DALLAS - The Catholic Foundation Board of Trustees has elected three new trustees, Richard D. Kelly, Thomas Reidy and Jean M. Dan Odom will continue as board chair through the end of the year. The three new trustees will serve two, three-year terms ending in 2029.

“Rich, Tom and Jean personify the powerful impact lay leaders in the Catholic church have by encouraging philanthropically minded people to fulfill their charitable giving goals by giving through The Catholic Foundation,” said Matt Kramer, president and CEO of The Catholic Foundation. “We welcome our newest trustees at a time when Foundation donor contributions, donor assets under management and grant distributions are at record levels.”

He serves on the board of directors for John Paul II High School and serves in multiple parish board positions at his parish, St. Gabriel the Archangel Catholic Church in McKinney where he and his wife, Catherine, are founding parishioners.
